Source coverage

- YouTube: Sep 18 long-form snapshot with 57 included long-form videos and 478 retained Shorts.
- YouTube Shorts limitation: the full Shorts catalog and non-Likes metrics remain from the reviewed Sep 10 workbook. The Sep 18 file supplies daily Likes through Sep 17 for only 5 existing Shorts; those Likes were refreshed without treating missing Shorts data as zero.
- YouTube subscriber metric: sum of the source-reported Subscribers column across included videos. It is not the current channel subscriber total or week-by-week channel growth.
- YouTube exclusions: aggregate rows, undated videos, and videos outside 2026 are omitted from dashboard analysis.
- Instagram: publishing coverage through 2026-09-18; 659 posts, with the latest published post on 2026-09-17. One Sep 17 Empathy Tour collaboration remains flagged in the source for authorship review and is included.
- TikTok: publishing coverage through 2026-09-18; 636 posts, with the latest published post on 2026-09-17. Engagements are recomputed as Likes + Comments + Shares + Bookmarks for every row because 8 source Total Engagements cells disagree with their components (80,838 source total versus 81,331 component total).
- X: combined-source publishing coverage through 2026-09-18; 1,037 authored posts, with the latest published post on 2026-09-17; rows that are themselves reposted posts were excluded upstream.
- X engagement uses the source-reported Engagements field. Source eras can include actions beyond likes, replies, reposts, and bookmarks; Reposts interaction counts are retained.

- Across Instagram, TikTok, and X, recent-post metrics were refreshed Sep 18; older rows retain prior export snapshots as documented in the source Definitions sheets.
- The headline reporting week uses complete cross-platform coverage through 2026-09-10. Publishing coverage runs through Sep 18, but YouTube's full Shorts catalog is complete only through Sep 10.
